This somewhat special edition of Radio Times marks the 1983 annual Radiothon; but instead of the usual rare (all true) about how our equipment's breaking down (it is); how short our funds are (they are); and how much the station needs the support of subscribers (believe me, we do), we're giving you your very own copy of the 1982 Hot Hundred.

The Hot Hundred was first held in 1976 and has come up every one or two years since then. Listeners send in their selections of the Hot Hundred songs of all time (often a gut-wrenching, mind-adding task, as people try to remember one hundred songs); the station collates them all and works out how many times each particular song was listed; and the top one hundred becomes the Hot Hundred.

New Year's day then becomes a riveting day of radio as the Hot Hundred is played throughout, from Number 100 to Number 1, this year followed by an hour of the Clash.

The only deviation from the list was that we couldn't play the Dead Kennedys' "Too Drunk to Fuck" (feet banned from airplay by the Broadcasting Tribunal), even after an impassioned plea, which was answered via a curt telex message — no, it can't be played; not even with the word "fuck" bleeped out. We were very tempted to send a return telex asking "How about backwards?" but it was more sensibly dealt with as we addressed the question "What exactly are they objecting to — the word or the concept (too intoxicated to copulate)? Ho hum.

This also was the first time that the Hot Hundred was completed without a Beatles song in it — many Beatles songs were voted for but there were not enough votes for any particular song to make it.

D. (Dave) Harris had selected forty-three of the final Hot Hundred and became the official winner, Tony Longland was granted the Monomania Award, and Nick Swainson and Luke Roberts (sons of whose graphics grace this page) took out the Most Decorative.

Kerry Davies

MONOMANIA AWARD WINNING ENTRY

"Da Da Da" — Trio
"De Da Da Da" — The Police
"Obey Dooby" — Roy Orbison
"Ma Na Ma Na" — (Theme from an obscure Swedish film)
"Boom Bang A Bang" — Petula Clark (or Sandy Shaw, or Cilla Black, or one of those interchangeable girl singers from the mid-60s)
"Ding Ding A Dong" — The incredibly healthy-looking potential suicides (a Swedish group, winners of the Eurovision contest)
"Ya Da" — Blind Lemon and his Chevrolet
"Diggy Diggy Lo" — Doug Kershaw
"Digger Digger Do" — Sonny Krabbe and his Billie Chorus
"Chirpy Brry Bim" — The Village Glee Club
"Nimby Bon Bon" — (If for who did this one)
"Inka Dinka Do" — Jimmy Durante
P.S. I haven't bothered to number them because the order is purely arbitrary.
